

New Website Online!

The new Arizona TPI website is now online! Go to www.aztpi.com and check it out for yourself! You'll recognize many of the graphics from the old website, and we've retained many of the original features but we believe your shopping experience will be significantly improved.

We've tried to make it easier to find the products you're looking for and to display the products in a clear and concise way. Some of you let us know that you found our original checkout process to be a bit cumbersome so we improved and simplified that also.

The new www.aztpi.com!

One of the features that won't be obvious to you is that it is now easier for us to add products to the website. Our original site contained a number of our more popular products but didn't include a lot of our fuel injection kits and other items that we sell in our Tempe store. Now that much of the development on the new site is complete, we'll be turning our attention to adding many more products that we hope you'll find interesting.

The new site allows you to set up a personal profile where you can save all your shipping and billing information except for your actual credit card information which, for security reasons, we purposely don't store in our database. At checkout time you'll simply log on and your information will be pre-filled for you. Just add the credit card information and your items will be on their way to your door!

When you have a profile set up, you'll also be able to monitor the status of your order and look at your order history. This way, if you ordered a part that you liked in the past but forgot the part number, you can check your order history to find out what it was.

A feature you may find useful at times like Christmas and birthdays is our new wish list. This allows you to receive free items from our catalog! Simply add the items you want to your wish list and use our email feature to send your wish list to friends and family members. Then sit back and wait for the gifts to come rolling in!

Along the same line as the wish list is the ability to send gift certificates. You can either send them by email or opt to have us print them for you at our Tempe facility and send them to the lucky recipient via US Mail. You can bring unimaginable joy to the automotive enthusiasts on your gift list with a few clicks on our website!

So, check out the new site and let us know what you think. As always, we take your suggestions seriously and do everything we can to make it easy for you to find the parts and information that you need for your project. Check out the new site at www.aztpi.com! (www.arizonatpi.com will get you there too.)

Fragola Fitting Update

Our new line of Fragola fittings has been well received. A local sand rail manufacturer cleaned out our supply of -8 Push-Lok hose the other day but we're restocked now!

As we mentioned in last month's newsletter, we're carrying an excellent selection of common fuel line sizes. We'll also be adding other sizes as we determine what you're looking for.

Our inventory of the Fragola fittings and hose is now available on our website. If there's something you need that you don't find there, give us a call and, if it's available, we'll have it shipped to you directly from the manufacturer.

Obsolete PROMs

Our good friends at Painless Performance make the best fuel injection wiring harnesses available, along with a bunch of other great products.

For the engine swaps and fuel injection conversions that we do in our shop, we almost always use a Painless harness rather than wrestle with a stock harness. There are a number of reasons for this. For one, taking out all the wiring you don't need from a stock harness is very time consuming. Once you've spent hours doing this and making it look neat, you'll have what Painless gives you right out of the box -- except yours won't be brand new and fully tested!

For the first-timer, the excellent instructions that come with each Painless harness are invaluable. They list GM part numbers for all the sensors, the ECM and the PROM's that you'll need for your installation. They've tested these combinations and they know they work. If you follow their instructions carefully, it makes for a truly "Painless" installation.

Recently however, we've become aware that some of the PROM's that Painless recommends for use with their wiring harnesses have been discontinued and are no longer available through GM. Because of this, some of these PROM's have become very difficult to find.

Fortunately, Arizona TPI has the ability to make these PROM's in our shop. They duplicate the factory PROM's and we guarantee that they'll work when used with a Painless harness and the other components recommended by Painless. These PROM's will be available shortly on our website or call the shop to get one now!

By the way, we're a distributor for Painless Performance products so we've also got the wiring harness you need for your project. When you buy from us, we're able to give you all the help you need because of our own hands-on experience with these great products!
